

SANKYO
MOVIMAT
THE FIRST JAPANESE
100% AUTOMATIC
ELECTRIC-EYE

THE WEATHER

Moderate southeast winds. Fair. At 1:00 p.m.
the temperature was 85 degrees Fahrenheit and the relative humidity was 70 per cent.

LATE FINAL

CHINA

MAIL

No. 37715

TUESDAY, JULY 12, 1960.

Price 20 Cents

FLY PAN AM
JETS
TO THE U.S.A.
8 flights weekly via Tokyo
For reservations
Phone 2701

Comment Of The Day

Another hotel for Hongkong

THE news that another first-class hotel is to be built in Hongkong should do much to still complaints which have been heard with almost alarming frequency lately, that the Colony is deficient in this type of tourist accommodation. It will be recalled that Hongkong Land Investment Co Ltd earlier deferred an announcement on the project until the outcome of the Murray Parade Ground auction was known. The land was sold to an American hotel concern and the only question left to be decided was whether this would be sufficient to meet accommodation demand. The Land Investment company has decided there is room for another. Moreover, in view of the shortage of office accommodation in Central district mentioned by the Chairman, Mr H. D. M. Barton in his last annual report, the fact that the hotel takes precedence may be taken as an indication of how seriously leading businessmen regard this deficiency.

At this same meeting a shareholder questioned the company's policy on the grounds that tourists "prefer to spend their money in other ways than paying for lavish accommodation." As far as tourists in general are concerned it is possible to agree with him, but many—wealthy—Americans, Europeans and, more recently, Australians have shown a clear preference for living in style and glitzy comfort. And it is in the interests of the considerable trade dependent on the expenditure of these tourists to cater for their needs.

The only question that can be seriously entertained is whether the decisions to build the new hotels have come too late. They will take a good two years to build and while the gap is being bridged to some extent in Kowloon, judging by the expected tourist influx, authorities believe the Colony will be no better off by 1963. There have been reports already of visitors not staying because of their inability to find the right kind of accommodation. Repeated complaints to this effect—and they are heard often enough already—could deter many from including Hongkong in their Far East itinerary. Our aim should be to provide for all who want to come here.

Ship terminal

IN another respect the Colony's tourist facilities need a speedy brushing-up. We badly require a modern, passenger shipping terminal, one of those sumptuous two-storey affairs which grace Southampton, complete with restaurant, air-conditioned galleries, and centrally situated customs and freight facilities. Anybody who has had to wait outside the existing passenger wharves in Kowloon will realize just how badly this amenity is needed.

The Wharf company's attitude is possibly that it could not countenance such a huge outlay for a project which offers little or no financial return other than wharfage fees. One estimate is that such a terminal would cost between $20 and $25 million. But if it is important for the Colony to have such an impressive and costly air terminal at Kai Tak, there is an equally good argument to be made for a Government subsidy for a first-class shipping terminal.

THE need is, if anything, greater for a shipping terminal since, so many tourists are passengers living on board ship who would use it as their daily gateway to the Colony. More and more big tourist ships are visiting the Colony, and the unsatisfactory condition of the existing wharves does nothing to enhance passengers' impressions of Hongkong, yet from this expenditure so many benefits will be to the good of the Colony generally that a Government subsidy should be made.

Car hits group on pedestrian crossing 8 CHILDREN KNOCKED DOWN

Traffic accident in Castle Peak Road

CAR CRUSHED
IN BUILDING
COLLAPSE

A car ploughed into a group of school children on a pedestrian crossing on Castle Peak Road at about 8.15 this morning.

A number of eye-witnesses said the car struck a traffic island and was apparently out of control when it ran into the children. Injured were eight students, two boys and six girls. One of the boys, Chan Tak-ming, 6, suffered a fractured skull.

Pinned down

A girl suffered abrasions. The remaining six were pinned underneath the chassis of the car which had to be lifted by the joint efforts of police and pedestrians to set the injured children free.

They were all sent to Kowloon Hospital where they were still detained at the time of going to press. The vehicle involved, a private car, was travelling east along Castle Peak when nearing the junction with Un Chau Street it suddenly collided with the traffic island in the centre of the crossing.

The impact sent the car veering to the left until it struck the wall near No. 460. Then it hurtled back to the right and eventually ploughed into the students.

Red flags

The Yok Ying School students about 20 in all were crossing from north to south with two teachers and two student leaders waving red flags. Besides the boy Chan Tak-ming, the other injured children were Wu Suet-ying, 7, Wong Chun-yin, 7, Liu Kam-yuk, 8, Ling Kam-lan, 6, Ling Kam-wan, 6, and Chu Chun-yu, 9, all girls, and the six-year-old boy, Ling Kam-tin.

The driver was later questioned by the police.

Meet Mister Clogghead today!

HONGKONG's roads teem with thousands of cars, and despite the hard-pressed Traffic Branch officers' efforts to cope with the situation, driving is becoming more difficult daily.

To underline some of the points which make motor-transporting the unnecessarily complicated thing it is today, the China Mail has enlisted the aid of the famous cartoonist Barry Appleby, creator of "The Gumbols," to investigate the activities of a certain well-known Mr Clogghead, whose habits of the wheel are known to make driving arduous, nerve-racking and often hazardous.

The results of this investigation will appear daily on page 5 of the China Mail starting today.

Schoolmaster Hugh Walters drove around for nearly a quarter of an hour looking for a parking space in London's crowded Soho area recently before he spotted a clear place in Lisle Street. He parked his old saloon, then went off to keep a hospital appointment. 15 minutes later he returned—to find fire engines, an ambulance and crowds of people milling around the wreckage of his car, totally destroyed when the wall of a four-storey building under demolition had collapsed and showered 50 tons of brickwork into the roadway. No one was hurt. Picture shows Walters inspecting the wreck of his car after it had been pulled clear.—Times Photographer.

Kennedy is assured of nomination

Los Angeles, July 11.

Senator John Kennedy looked to be a certain winner of the Democratic presidential nomination today. He obtained solid support from another key approximation at the party's convention here.

Senator Kennedy later said he had the 761 convention votes needed to give him the Democratic presidential nomination.

Mr David Lawrence, the Governor of Pennsylvania, and one of the few political leaders its 81 votes for Senator Kennedy in the first ballot on Wednesday. Senator Kennedy for days has had astonishing success in overcoming the obstacles to obtain the nomination and become the Party's candidate to oppose Vice-President Richard Nixon, the almost certain Republican nominee in the election next November 8.

To most observers here Senator Kennedy seemed to be in an unbeatable position. It seemed that only a political disaster could keep him away from victory on Wednesday night.

He will go into the balloting in a tremendously strong position as a result of his success in projecting himself to key delegations as a winner over Senator Lyndon Johnson, the Democratic leader in the Senate and his strongest rival for the nomination.

Senator Johnson gave no immediate indication that he would withdraw his candidacy, but earlier had spoken in rather gloomy tones about his chances of attracting enough support to assure his own nomination, or at least to block Senator Kennedy.

Pennsylvania Governor Lawrence later announced officially that his delegation had decided to cast 94 votes for Senator Kennedy. Some 2,000 delegates from the New York State delegation voted to give Senator Kennedy 101 of its 114 votes on the first ballot.

Standings in votes

Los Angeles, July 11.
Standings in the Democratic presidential race as tabulated from indicated first ballot preferences:
Sen. John F. Kennedy 766
Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson 404
Favourite sons 16414
Sen. Stuart Symington 845
Adlai E. Stevenson 49
Uncommitted 73
(Needed to nominate—761)—UPI warding in his way, climbed off the fence after a meeting of his delegation and announced his endorsement of Mr. Kennedy's candidacy.

Governor Lawrence announced that his delegation had decided to cast 94 votes for Senator Kennedy.

RB-47 FLIGHT: IKE CALLS FOR A DETAILED REPORT

Newport, July 11.

The White House announced today that President Eisenhower has asked the State and Defence Departments for a full report on the reported shooting down by Soviet airmen of a U.S. RB-47 reconnaissance plane over the Barents Sea.

No comment will be made until this report is received.

The White House news secretary, Mr James C. Hagerty, said a complete text of the Soviet note alleging that the plane was shot down over Soviet territory has not been received yet, and therefore the report asked by the President is not available from Washington.

Mr Hagerty said today's Soviet announcement was the first word that the U.S. Government had received that the Russians were involved in the fate of the RB-47, which was reported by American authorities in Europe to be missing on July 1 on a map-making survey between Britain and Norway.

TWO RESCUED

The Soviet note said the Russians rescued two of the six crew members from a rubber dinghy. It reported the body of one crewman had been recovered and that three others still were missing. The note said the plane committed a "gross violation" of Soviet territory.

Mr Hagerty read the following statement on the incident:

"Neither I nor members of the government will have any comment at this time on the latest Russian charges that they shot down an American plane which was violating Soviet air territory. The reason we will have no comment is that we are awaiting a full report from the State and Defence Departments as soon as they have the full text of the Russian note so that it can be carefully studied. The note has not come in yet from our Embassy in Moscow, and until it does, until it can be studied, I have no further comment."

In response to questions, Mr Hagerty said Mr Eisenhower was playing golf when he received word of the Soviet charges. The President's first reaction, Mr Hagerty said, was to ask for a full report from the State and Defence Departments as soon as they have the full text of the Russian note.

MISSING PLANE

Mr Hagerty said the plane the Russians now say they shot down on July 1 over their territorial waters apparently is the same missing plane which they announced earlier they had sent a naval vessel to seek when allied ships also were conducting a search in the area north of Russia's Kola Peninsula and Norway.

Mr Hagerty said that the possibility of Russian involvement in the "downing" of the plane had not been discussed by the President and Secretary of State, Mr Christian A. Herter, during their conference here this morning, which occurred before the Soviet announcement.—UPI

80 Americans have died in plane incidents

New York, July 12.

At least 80 Americans have died in 12 United States aircraft shot down or lost in cold war episodes during the past 10 years. At least three others were captured.

There were other incidents involving Americans and Soviet planes since 1950, in which the U.S. planes returned safely to base without casualties.

Downed plane on secret mission say the Russians

London, July 11.

Russia today claimed that the two surviving American airmen of the shot-down RB-47 bomber had stated that their plane "fulfilled special military reconnaissance missions."

This was revealed in the Soviet protest note published today.

The note also stated that the aircraft carried special photo and radio electronic equipment.

The two surviving airmen were Navigator First Lieutenant John Richard MacCone of Missouri aged 27 and co-pilot, First Lieutenant Freeman Bruce Altmsted of New York aged 24.

Soviet note

Referring to the plane's missions, the Soviet note said:

"As MacCone and Altmsted testified during the interrogation, the plane in which they had flown—a six-engined RB-47 reconnaissance bomber—belonged to an air unit of the American military strategic reconnaissance group included in the 58th Wing and fulfilled special military reconnaissance missions."

The Soviet note went on to say:

"Before the take-off, on a route lying along the northern frontier of Norway and the Soviet Union, the crew of the plane had been warned by their unit commander at Brize Norton base, that the flight had to be kept top secret and the crew were therefore forbidden to maintain regular radio communication with the base."

The two airmen, according to the note, said that after its mission the plane was to return to Brize Norton in Britain.

No information

The Soviet account of the incident said a Major Dittbell was commander of the aircraft's unit.

A Major Robert Dittbell was located at Brize Norton base by United Press International. Dittbell, when told that his name was mentioned by the note, said: "I'm sorry I can't give any information about the plane."

The Assistant Secretary of Defence, Mr Murray Snyder, expressed his conviction that the bomber had not made a deliberate attempt to fly over the Soviet Union.

Mr Snyder said he was basing his opinion on the official order given by American Eisenhower to all American aircraft to avoid violating the air space of Communist countries following the U-2 incident on May 1.

Another Defence Department spokesman indicated that a navigational error may have led the bomber off its course.—All agencies.

A passenger launch on the Amazon River overturned and sank with 22 persons aboard. No survivors were reported.

Katanga secedes from Congo

Elisabethville, July 11.

Premier Moise Tshombe announced tonight that the Katanga Province was seceding from the Congo Republic.

Mr Tshombe's announcement was made in a broadcast, while gunfire was still sounding in the streets of the city between Belgian army paratroopers and rebel Congolese army troops.

COMMUNIST LINE

The Premier called for an economic union with Belgium and said the central Congolese Government led by Patrice Lumumba, was following the Communist line which he said had brought on the murder and pillage in the Congo.

Tas 40-year-old Premier said "the Katanga Government can never agree to the Central Government for bringing on the rights of the provinces."

"The Katanga Government is determined to base itself on a policy of peace and order."

"In the face of the threats of this Central Government to make us submit to the will of Communism, the Katanga Government has decided to proclaim its independence."

CO-OPERATION

Mr Tshombe said the independence would necessarily mean very close co-operation with the Belgians.

"In the light of this Katanga has asked Belgium to unify itself with the Katanga in a common economic bond."

"We ask that Belgium continue its financial, technical and military aid and we ask for Belgium's help in establishing public order in a secure Katanga."

Mr Tshombe said that Belgium did not agree to this appeal. The Katanga will thus appeal to the rest of the world to recognize our right to freely choose our own government.—UPI.

(See P2, New States in the Congo)

RENEWED CONGO RIOTING

Africans loot, plunder as Europeans flee

Leopoldville, July 11. Rioting and rebellion flared up in the Congo again today and Belgian troops went into action at several flash points.

The situation seemed worse in Stanleyville in the eastern province where Congolese were looting and pillaging. Thousands of Africans streamed into the town bent on picking the spoils left behind by fleeing Europeans.

The African army was in rebellion and did not stop them. They plundered banks, houses and attacked the few Europeans remaining.

About 500 Africans were surrounding a four-story building in the city centre where Europeans had taken refuge.

The African army was in rebellion and did not stop them. They plundered banks, houses and attacked the few Europeans remaining.

WOMEN HELD

Belgian troops went into action in the port town of Matadi on the lower reaches of the Congo river where African troops tried to prevent a refugee ship from leaving the harbour.

In Matadi, too, reports said the African population grabbed anything left by the fleeing Europeans.

A group of white women were reported being held by African troops in their camp near the town.

Katanga provincial Premier Moïse Tshombe declared a state of emergency in Elisabethville and named Belgian Major Weber, commander of the paratroopers, as chief peace officer.

In the outlying reaches of the vast mineral-rich province reports said hostile Africans continued to mull.

Belgian paratroopers were rounding up African army rebels a few miles from Elisabethville. Some resistance was being met and shots had been exchanged.

SECESSION

The Belgian troops disarmed the Congolese army without any resistance in the mandated territories of Ruanda and Urundi.

Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba and President Joseph Kasavubu were on their way to Elisabethville where Tshombe was believed to be considering announcing the secession of the rich Katanga province from the Congo Republic.

African Affairs Minister and former resident General Walter Ganshof Van Der Meersch cancelled a scheduled flight to Elisabethville.

They were to have followed Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba and President Joseph Kasavubu there this afternoon but met several members of the Congolese Cabinet instead with whom they discussed the situation.

They will evidently stay in the capital until the two Congolese leaders return from Elisabethville tomorrow.

The secession of the Katanga would be a death blow to the Congo which will get 60 per cent of its revenue from this province.

Before leaving for Elisabethville, Premier Lumumba had asked United Nations representative Dr Ralph Bunche for U.N. technical and military aid to get the country back on its feet.

UNITED NATIONS

Bunche refused comment but was receiving a steady stream of African representatives all day including Thomas Kanza, the Congolese delegate to the United Nations.

Economic life is completely disorganised and threatens to produce famine and large scale unemployment. Food supplies were already showing signs of diminishing because of the disorganisation of transport, especially shipping on the Congo river.

Tension among the African population in Leopoldville was rising, following Lumumba's declaration this morning that all wages would be increased immediately by 30 per cent.

The few employees still in business said this was an impossibility at the present time. As a result, hundreds of workers, including employees of the Belgian World Airlines, went on strike.—UPI.

Castro's condition

Havana, July 11. Cuban Premier Fidel Castro was reported resting comfortably in Havana today but government officials said they had no fresh information on his exact condition. He is reported to have pneumonia.—AP.

Court upholds sentence on former 'Miss Europe'

London, July 11. The Court of Criminal Appeal today refused to reduce the sentence of 12 months' imprisonment passed on 21-year-old Johanna Ehrenstrasser, Austrian actress elected 'Miss Europe' in 1958, for stealing jewellery and fur worth £5,900 in London's West End.

Her counsel said she had committed the offences after taking large doses of a dangerous slimming drug, prelude, which could cause confusional insanity and sometimes even suicidal tendencies.

It was then on free sale but had since been put on the poison list.

Ehrenstrasser, who did not attend today's appeal, had also been recommended for deportation. She was sentenced last March.

One of the judges asked her counsel if he thought the case very different from that of a man who said he had too much to drink.

HARMFUL DRUG

"It is because people know the effects of drink," counsel replied. "But if a drug is on the market people do not know it is harmful."

She was taking poison without knowing it was poison.

Counsel, submitting that the sentence was too heavy asked for a conditional discharge so that she could be sent out of the country immediately and not swell the prison population.

Asked by Lord Parker, Lord Chief Justice, whether Ehrenstrasser had been convicted in Vienna in 1957, counsel said that matter was deliberately not mentioned by the prosecution at her trial and she had "a complete explanation of it"—China Mail Special.

General complains to Leopold II

Brussels, July 11. General Emile Janssens ousted commander of the Congolese Public Force (Army), today expressed his disgust with the present situation in the Congo by addressing himself to the equestrian statue here of King Leopold II founder of the Congo.

He said: "Sire, they have fouled it up for you, (Sire, il vous l'ont cochonné)."

The General, who returned here from the Congo after being replaced by an African as commander of the Public Force made his remark while standing in attention before the statue.

The General told newspapermen that on his arrival here by air from Africa he had been received by a mere NCO and that he was going to see King Baudouin "to tell him what I have to say about the Congo affair."—AFP.

Disastrous fire in Brazil

Brasilia, July 11. The new capital of Brazil, already facing a shortage of water, food and housing, suffered a disastrous fire on Sunday which destroyed 12 buildings. One person was killed and many families were left homeless.—AP.

Tipsters collect

CHICAGO. Tipsters established the federal government to collect about $12.5 million in horse gambling and interest last year, according to Commerce clearing House.

Revenues averaging $255 million were generated by 208 individuals who acted as 124 tipsters. Another $400 million was generated by 1,000 tipsters, according to the clearing house.

Picture shows David Lean, British film director, with his fourth wife, Indian girl Lella Deva, after their quiet wedding in Paris last week. Lean, whose last marriage was to actress Ann Todd, and Lella have been inseparable companions since they met while he was filming "The Bridge on the River Kwai" in India.—Express Photo.

Australian ban on Dutch warships

Perth, July 11.

The seamen's union at the western Australian port of Fremantle today declared "blitz" the Dutch aircraft-carrier Karel Doorman and two destroyers which are due there tomorrow on their way to Dutch New Guinea.

The union decided not to supply crews for tugs or a pilot boat to service the warships, due to stay six days in Fremantle.

Squally winds are forecast for tomorrow morning when the ships are due to berth and this could make it difficult for the carrier. The two destroyers, Limburg and Groningen, are expected to be able to berth without assistance.

DIFFERENCES

Union officials said the ban was being imposed because it was felt the "flag-showing" trip could lead to war and unionists believed the differences between the Netherlands and Indonesia over West New Guinea should be settled by peaceful means.

(In the Hague, authoritative sources said the ban would not affect the ships' trip).—Reuters.

Request for British rule is rejected

Nairobi, July 11.

Sir Patrick Renison, the Governor of Kenya, today told Mosai tribesmen their request for continued British rule was impracticable.

The tribesmen had asked that British rule continue until they were ready to rule themselves in conjunction with the Masai in Tanganyika.

Sir Patrick said that Britain had promised independence to Kenya of which their territory is a part and "it is quite impossible for you to sever your connections with the rest of the country."

He advised them to "think in terms of playing a full part in the politics and economy of Kenya."—Reuters.

Nuclear tests

London, July 11.

Mr John Profumo, Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, said today he could not say agreement on the banning of nuclear tests was actually in sight, but he hoped it was "not far off."

He had been asked in the House of Commons for a progress report on the Geneva East-West conference on nuclear tests.—Reuters.

Unrest in India: workers arrested

New Delhi, July 12.

Police Flying Squad cars last night rounded-up several hundred government workers as Labour leaders defied a government ban by calling an illegal nation-wide strike of lower-paid civil servants at midnight.

The strike, to enforce wage demands, threatened to disrupt essential services and develop into India's worst labour stoppage since independence: was achieved 18 years ago.

Mr Nehru, the Prime Minister, has warned that if the strike succeeded it could bring the collapse of the government.

First reports indicated the strike call had only a limited response but the complete effect is unlikely to be seen until later today.

Armed police had been stationed at railway junctions, post offices and telegraph centres in case of mob incidents or sabotage. But there were no immediate indications of violence.

STANDBY

The three armed services also stood by to maintain law and order and operate railways and other public services.

A few hours before the midnight deadline yesterday Flying Squad men swooped on leaders of the strike arresting nine people in Bombay and 14 in Delhi.

The government has rejected the wage demands which it said could lead to spiralling inflation.

The strike leaders who claim to represent the two million workers said yesterday no further negotiations were possible unless the government made concessions over pay and allowances.

Mr Nehru was reported equally adamant. A member of Parliament acting as go-between said the Prime Minister refused to meet the Labour leaders unless they first withdrew the strike threat.—Reuters.

5 more killed in Assam riots

Calcutta, July 11.

Language riots now sweeping Assam state claimed five more lives today in two districts of upper Assam.

There were reports in these areas of arson, looting and assault, while the long trek of the Beggai speaking population continued across the border for protection in West Bengal. The riots followed resistance of the Bengali population to Assamese as the state language.—AP.

La Lolla buys Olympic horse

Toronto, July 11.

Film star Greta Garbo bought the Olympic horse but now she owns a horse that will.

Attending a dinner to raise funds for Canada's Olympic Equestrian team, Miss Lollobrigida, learned one of the horses chosen after three days of Olympic trials was up for sale.

In partnership with Harry Addison of Toronto, the actress purchased the horse and immediately renamed him Roma.—AP.

Ex-barber acquitted

Nicosia, July 11.

Christos Pappayannis, a 35-year-old Greek Cypriot who was formerly a barber in Golden Square, London, was acquitted here today on a charge of strangling the 23-year-old victim by the neck.

Mr Pappayannis, who had been charged with the murder of a 23-year-old woman, was found not guilty by a jury.

SHE CLAIMS TO BE RIGHTFUL QUEEN OF WEST IRIAN

From GORDON HUNG

Singapore, July 11.

The disputed piece of territory in New Guinea, now occupied by the Dutch but claimed by the Indonesians, now has a third claimant—a 56-year-old matronly Indonesian princess.

Princess Emilia Sunassa is now in Singapore on her way to the United Nations in New York to present her claim as the rightful monarch of West Irian, otherwise known as Dutch New Guinea.

Speaking of her 20-year-old struggle to establish her claim, she said that she has all the proof she needs.

A document in Arabic dated 1894 was, she claimed, her birth certificate clearly showing her to be the daughter of the Queen of "Onim Papan" (West Irian) and the Sultan of Tidore, an island in the Moluccas group.

She also has a glittering necklace which she said was the traditional symbol of the Princess of Onim Papan.

The document and the necklace were going with her when she puts her case this time before the United Nations.

PROOF

Princess Emilia was satisfied that after seeking legal advice in many parts of the world—and she is in Singapore for the same purpose—she had sufficient proof to establish that she is the princess of West Irian.

She said that soon after she was born, her mother died. It was a time of great unrest in West Irian so her father gave her in adoption to a friend who took her away to safety in North Celebes.

It was not until 1912, she said, that she learned of her true parentage when her foster father gave her the key to a chest which her father had entrusted to him.

Among the many items she found in the chest were her royal birth certificate and the necklace.

The Indonesian Consulate-General here commenting on the princess's claim for the first time said:

"Our Government may consider accepting her as the Queen of West Irian, after we have recovered this territory from the Dutch, and once she had proved her claims to the throne."

But he advised her against going to the United Nations, as it was "not the proper place to deal with the matter."

He suggested that she should bring her evidence before an Indonesian court.

He said that the whole matter should be treated as a purely family matter.

The Princess, he said, is more famous in Indonesia for her paintings than her politics.

It was reported here that a "powerful and influential group" of Chinese taipans had promised to finance Princess Emilia's trip to New York.

But why did she wait all these years to fight for what she claimed is hers by right? "I have been fighting but not very vigorously," she replied.

Princess Emilia Sunassa

Appeal to kidnappers in four languages

Sydney, July 11.

Basil Thorne, father of 8-year-old Graeme Thorne who was kidnapped last Thursday, sent out an appeal in four languages tonight asking the kidnappers to contact him.

The appeal was released through Sydney police and translated from English into German, Italian and Greek—the languages most widely used by Australian immigrants.

Graeme disappeared soon after he left his family's apartment "for" school. The only word since then has been a telephone call from a man with a foreign accent. He called Graeme's parents two hours after the boy left home, demanding $25,000 ransom.

PHONE CALL

The Thornes are still waiting for another phone call from the kidnapper to arrange a meeting to hand over the money.

Basil Thorne last month won $100,000.

"All we want is our son back unharmed," he said today. "The kidnappers will get the money if they keep their word."—AP.

Fair reason

Middlebury, Vt. Middlebury College's dean of women, Mrs John Kelly, in charge of 525 girls, says her own daughter Jane, attends the University of Vermont because "I'm at Middlebury."—UPI.

A British Crossword Puzzle

- ACROSS
- Force acquiescence (8)
 - Affliction of the swollen-headed (5)
 - The man to serve the Church (8)
 - Drive a ball badly (6)
 - Catch round the neck (4)
 - Stated on the charge sheet (7)
 - Sound of one who is amused (7)
 - Went on another tack? (6)
 - Having a high moral tone (5)
 - It burns to serve us (8)
 - Mrs Ruff, the steward (5)
 - Cultivated (6)
- DOWN
- Not a serious journal (5)
 - Small remedy holder (5)
 - What one might call one-sided (7)
 - Bit for a code letter (6)
 - Parent to hang around and swing the lead (8)
 - Drapes designed to cover the bed? (6)
 - What addlers find in the law (8)
 - Little beast (7)
 - Like Dick? (6)
 - Arouse 'one's' fancy, maybe (8)
 - Lease broken for a studio (5)
 - Dared to be different (6)

YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD—Across: 1. Dumb; 2. Stupid; 3. Fool; 4. Simple; 5. Plain; 6. Basic; 7. Fundamental; 8. Elementary; 9. Primitive; 10. Uneducated; 11. Ignorant; 12. Unlearned; 13. Unskilled; 14. Untrained; 15. Uneducated; 16. Unlearned; 17. Unskilled; 18. Untrained; 19. Uneducated; 20. Unlearned; 21. Unskilled; 22. Untrained; 23. Uneducated; 24. Unlearned; 25. Unskilled; 26. Untrained; 27. Uneducated; 28. Unlearned; 29. Unskilled; 30. Untrained; 31. Uneducated; 32. Unlearned; 33. Unskilled; 34. Untrained; 35. Uneducated; 36. Unlearned; 37. Unskilled; 38. Untrained; 39. Uneducated; 40. Unlearned; 41. Unskilled; 42. Untrained; 43. Uneducated; 44. Unlearned; 45. Unskilled; 46. Untrained; 47. Uneducated; 48. Unlearned; 49. Unskilled; 50. Untrained; 51. Uneducated; 52. Unlearned; 53. Unskilled; 54. Untrained; 55. Uneducated; 56. Unlearned; 57. Unskilled; 58. Untrained; 59. Uneducated; 60. Unlearned; 61. Unskilled; 62. Untrained; 63. Uneducated; 64. Unlearned; 65. Unskilled; 66. Untrained; 67. Uneducated; 68. Unlearned; 69. Unskilled; 70. Untrained; 71. Uneducated; 72. Unlearned; 73. Unskilled; 74. Untrained; 75. Uneducated; 76. Unlearned; 77. Unskilled; 78. Untrained; 79. Uneducated; 80. Unlearned; 81. Unskilled; 82. Untrained; 83. Uneducated; 84. Unlearned; 85. Unskilled; 86. Untrained; 87. Uneducated; 88. Unlearned; 89. Unskilled; 90. Untrained; 91. Uneducated; 92. Unlearned; 93. Unskilled; 94. Untrained; 95. Uneducated; 96. Unlearned; 97. Unskilled; 98. Untrained; 99. Uneducated; 100. Unlearned; 101. Unskilled; 102. Untrained; 103. Uneducated; 104. Unlearned; 105. Unskilled; 106. Untrained; 107. Uneducated; 108. Unlearned; 109. Unskilled; 110. Untrained; 111. Uneducated; 112. Unlearned; 113. Unskilled; 114. Untrained; 115. Uneducated; 116. Unlearned; 117. Unskilled; 118. Untrained; 119. Uneducated; 120. Unlearned; 121. Unskilled; 122. Untrained; 123. Uneducated; 124. Unlearned; 125. Unskilled; 126. Untrained; 127. Uneducated; 128. Unlearned; 129. Unskilled; 130. Untrained; 131. Uneducated; 132. Unlearned; 133. Unskilled; 134. Untrained; 135. Uneducated; 136. Unlearned; 137. Unskilled; 138. Untrained; 139. Uneducated; 140. Unlearned; 141. Unskilled; 142. Untrained; 143. Uneducated; 144. Unlearned; 145. Unskilled; 146. Untrained; 147. Uneducated; 148. Unlearned; 149. Unskilled; 150. Untrained; 151. Uneducated; 152. Unlearned; 153. Unskilled; 154. Untrained; 155. Uneducated; 156. Unlearned; 157. Unskilled; 158. Untrained; 159. Uneducated; 160. Unlearned; 161. Unskilled; 162. Untrained; 163. Uneducated; 164. Unlearned; 165. Unskilled; 166. Untrained; 167. Uneducated; 168. Unlearned; 169. Unskilled; 170. Untrained; 171. Uneducated; 172. Unlearned; 173. Unskilled; 174. Untrained; 175. Uneducated; 176. Unlearned; 177. Unskilled; 178. Untrained; 179. Uneducated; 180. Unlearned; 181. Unskilled; 182. Untrained; 183. Uneducated; 184. Unlearned; 185. Unskilled; 186. Untrained; 187. Uneducated; 188. Unlearned; 189. Unskilled; 190. Untrained; 191. Uneducated; 192. Unlearned; 193. Unskilled; 194. Untrained; 195. Uneducated; 196. Unlearned; 197. Unskilled; 198. Untrained; 199. Uneducated; 200. Unlearned; 201. Unskilled; 202. Untrained; 203. Uneducated; 204. Unlearned; 205. Unskilled; 206. Untrained; 207. Uneducated; 208. Unlearned; 209. Unskilled; 210. Untrained; 211. Uneducated; 212. Unlearned; 213. Unskilled; 214. Untrained; 215. Uneducated; 216. Unlearned; 217. Unskilled; 218. Untrained; 219. Uneducated; 220. Unlearned; 221. Unskilled; 222. Untrained; 223. Uneducated; 224. Unlearned; 225. Unskilled; 226. Untrained; 227. Uneducated; 228. Unlearned; 229. Unskilled; 230. Untrained; 231. Uneducated; 232. Unlearned; 233. Unskilled; 234. Untrained; 235. Uneducated; 236. Unlearned; 237. Unskilled; 238. Untrained; 239. Uneducated; 240. Unlearned; 241. Unskilled; 242. Untrained; 243. Uneducated; 244. Unlearned; 245. Unskilled; 246. Untrained; 247. Uneducated; 248. Unlearned; 249. Unskilled; 250. Untrained; 251. Uneducated; 252. Unlearned; 253. Unskilled; 254. Untrained; 255. Uneducated; 256. Unlearned; 257. Unskilled; 258. Untrained; 259. Uneducated; 260. Unlearned; 261. Unskilled; 262. Untrained; 263. Uneducated; 264. Unlearned; 265. Unskilled; 266. Untrained; 267. Uneducated; 268. Unlearned; 269. Unskilled; 270. Untrained; 271. Uneducated; 272. Unlearned; 273. Unskilled; 274. Untrained; 275. Uneducated; 276. Unlearned; 277. Unskilled; 278. Untrained; 279. Uneducated; 280. Unlearned; 281. Unskilled; 282. Untrained; 283. Uneducated; 284. Unlearned; 285. Unskilled; 286. Untrained; 287. Uneducated; 288. Unlearned; 289. Unskilled; 290. Untrained; 291. Uneducated; 292. Unlearned; 293. Unskilled; 294. Untrained; 295. Uneducated; 296. Unlearned; 297. Unskilled; 298. Untrained; 299. Uneducated; 300. Unlearned; 301. Unskilled; 302. Untrained; 303. Uneducated; 304. Unlearned; 305. Unskilled; 306. Untrained; 307. Uneducated; 308. Unlearned; 309. Unskilled; 310. Untrained; 311. Uneducated; 312. Unlearned; 313. Unskilled; 314. Untrained; 315. Uneducated; 316. Unlearned; 317. Unskilled; 318. Untrained; 319. Uneducated; 320. Unlearned; 321. Unskilled; 322. Untrained; 323. Uneducated; 324. Unlearned; 325. Unskilled; 326. Untrained; 327. Uneducated; 328. Unlearned; 329. Unskilled; 330. Untrained; 331. Uneducated; 332. Unlearned; 333. Unskilled; 334. Untrained; 335. Uneducated; 336. Unlearned; 337. Unskilled; 338. Untrained; 339. Uneducated; 340. Unlearned; 341. Unskilled; 342. Untrained; 343. Uneducated; 344. Unlearned; 345. Unskilled; 346. Untrained; 347. Uneducated; 348. Unlearned; 349. Unskilled; 350. Untrained; 351. Uneducated; 352. Unlearned; 353. Unskilled; 354. Untrained; 355. Uneducated; 356. Unlearned; 357. Unskilled; 358. Untrained; 359. Uneducated; 360. Unlearned; 361. Unskilled; 362. Untrained; 363. Uneducated; 364. Unlearned; 365. Unskilled; 366. Untrained; 367. Uneducated; 368. Unlearned; 369. Unskilled; 370. Untrained; 371. Uneducated; 372. Unlearned; 373. Unskilled; 374. Untrained; 375. Uneducated; 376. Unlearned; 377. Unskilled; 378. Untrained; 379. Uneducated; 380. Unlearned; 381. Unskilled; 382. Untrained; 383. Uneducated; 384. Unlearned; 385. Unskilled; 386. Untrained; 387. Uneducated; 388. Unlearned; 389. Unskilled; 390. Untrained; 391. Uneducated; 392. Unlearned; 393. Unskilled; 394. Untrained; 395. Uneducated; 396. Unlearned; 397. Unskilled; 398. Untrained; 399. Uneducated; 400. Unlearned; 401. Unskilled; 402. Untrained; 403. Uneducated; 404. Unlearned; 405. Unskilled; 406. Untrained; 407. Uneducated; 408. Unlearned; 409. Unskilled; 410. Untrained; 411. Uneducated; 412. Unlearned; 413. Unskilled; 414. Untrained; 415. Uneducated; 416. Unlearned; 417. Unskilled; 418. Untrained; 419. Uneducated; 420. Unlearned; 421. Unskilled; 422. Untrained; 423. Uneducated; 424. Unlearned; 425. Unskilled; 426. Untrained; 427. Uneducated; 428. Unlearned; 429. Unskilled; 430. Untrained; 431. Uneducated; 432. Unlearned; 433. Unskilled; 434. Untrained; 435. Uneducated; 436. Unlearned; 437. Unskilled; 438. Untrained; 439. Uneducated; 440. Unlearned; 441. Unskilled; 44

KING'S PRINCESS

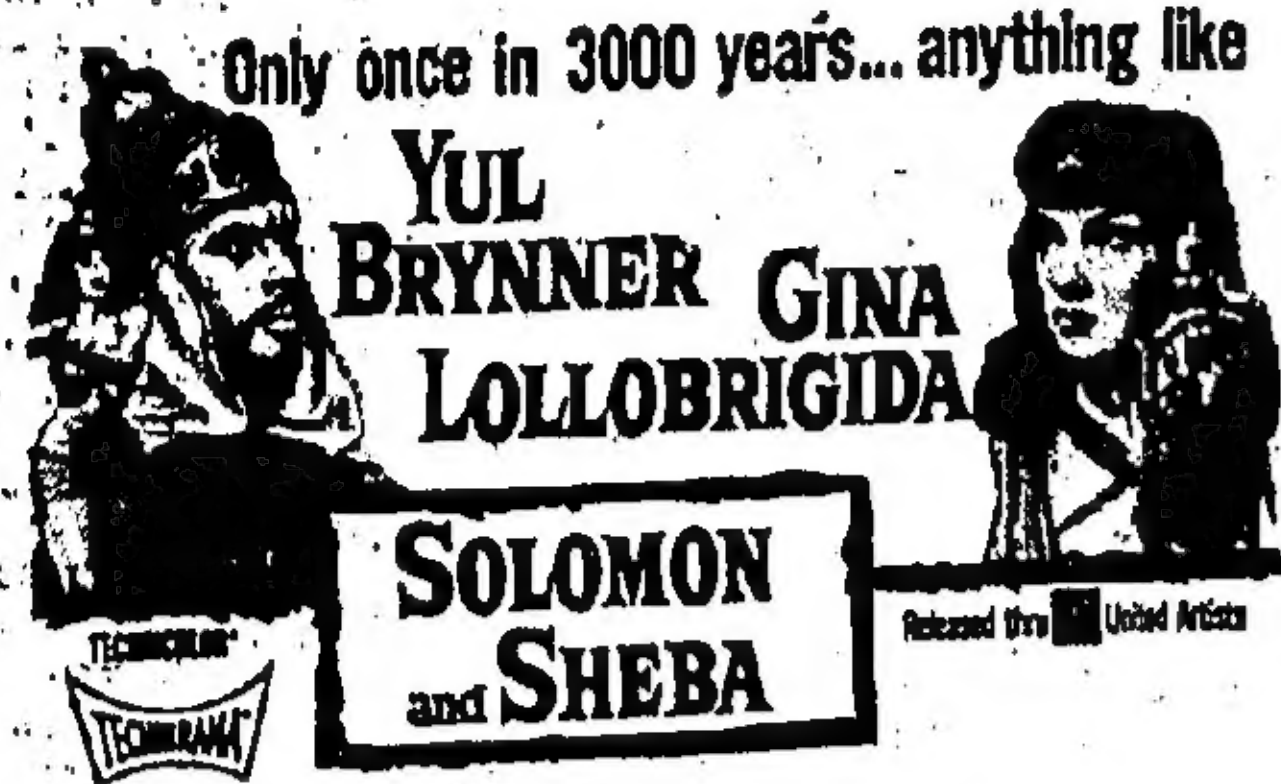

SHOWING TO-DAY

3RD BIG WEEK! — 19th DAY

Please note change of times due to length of picture:

At 2.30, 5.00, 7.30 & 9.40 p.m. || At 2.30, 5.10, 7.30 & 9.40 p.m.

THE MIGHTIEST MOTION PICTURE EVER CREATTD!

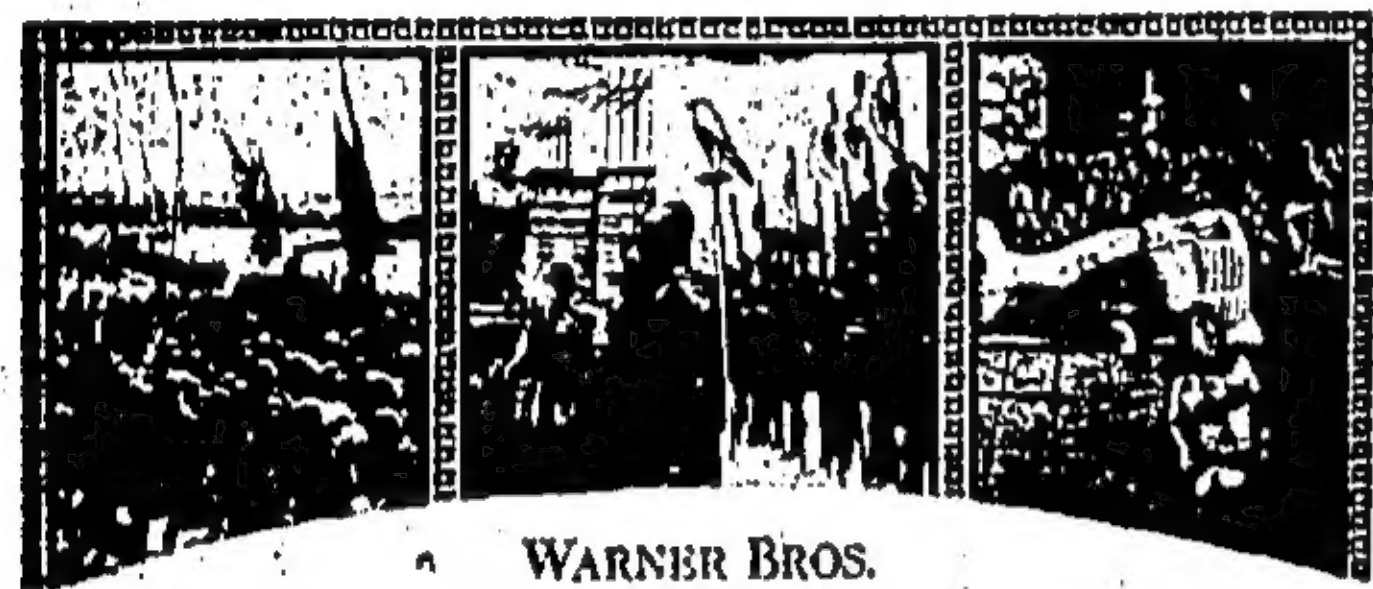

SOLOMON and SHEBA

STATE-ROYAL

King's Rd., H. K. Tel: 77-3948 Nathan Rd., Kln. Tel: 80-5700

NOW SHOWING AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 P.M.

WARNER BROS.

HOWARD HAWKS'

LAND OF THE PHAROHS

NEXT CHANGE

The times and crimes of the youngest, most merciless mob-lord in New York's gang history!

"The Rise and Fall of 'Legs' Diamond"

Starring

Ray Danton • Karen Steele • Elaine Stewart

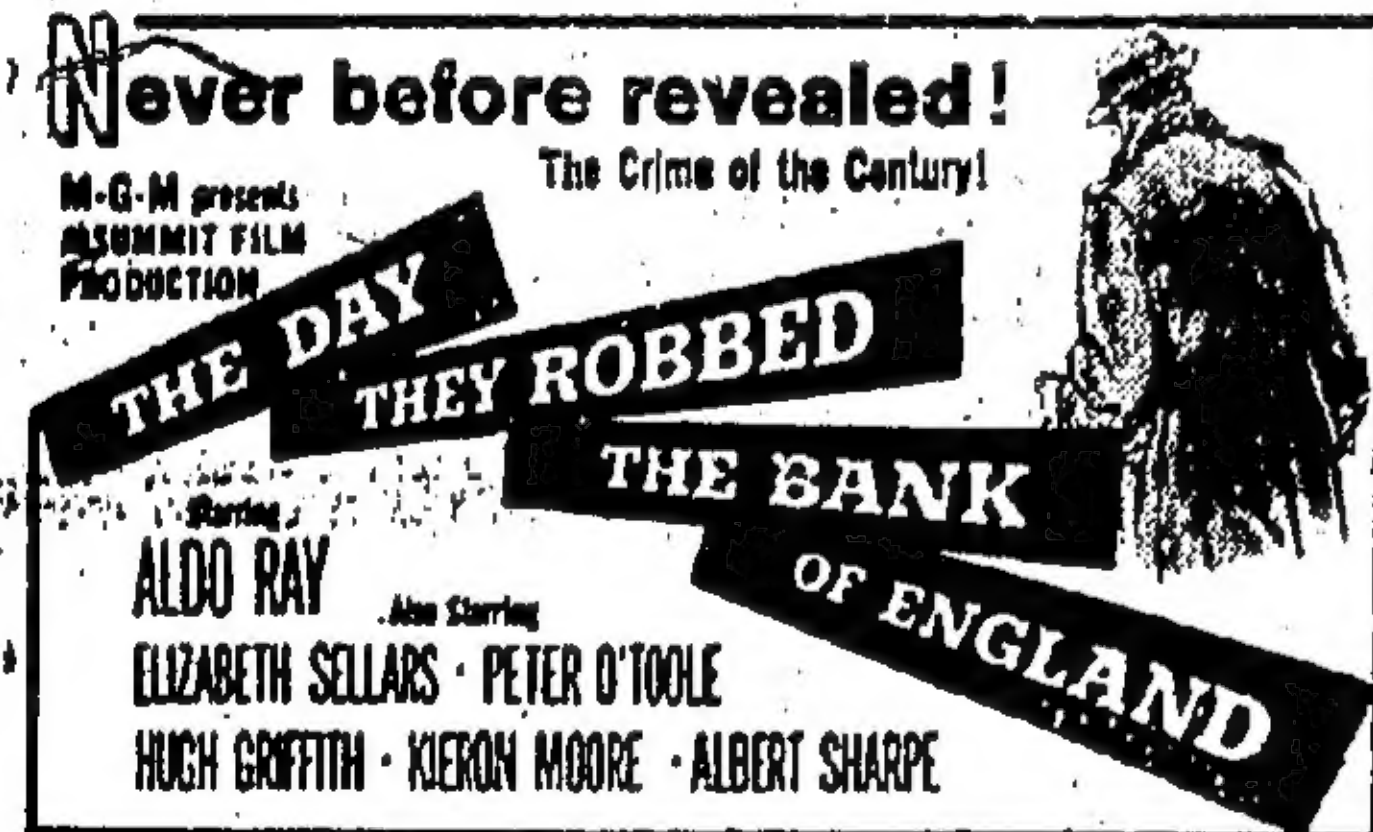

SHAW CIRCUIT

HOOVER • GALA

TEL 72371 TEL 52979

TO-DAY AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 P.M.

Most daring & ingenious thefts ever perpetrated!

RITZ CINEMA

Tel. 50100

★ SHOWING TO-DAY ★

AT 2.30, 5.20, 7.30 & 9.40 P.M.

£10 million stamp show

STRICT SECURITY GUARD OVER EXHIBITION

London, July 11.

Strict security precautions are being maintained at the £10 million London International Stamp Exhibition being held at the Royal Festival Hall here.

NZ aid for Singapore industrial development

Wellington, July 11.

Mr. T. R. Pollard, Director of the Industrial Development Department at Canterbury University, New Zealand, is going to Singapore for three months to help the Singapore Government to establish an industrial research unit, the New Zealand Prime Minister, Mr. Walter Nash, announced tonight.

Mr. Pollard leaves for Singapore on August 4.

Mr. Nash said Singapore has become increasingly conscious of the urgent need to set up industries. A research unit would draw up standards, test samples and help industries to get under way.

The unit is to be located in Singapore Polytechnic where the Principal is a New Zealander, Mr. C. I. C. Scollay.

ADDITIONAL WAYS

Mr. Nash said New Zealand had been looking for additional ways to help Singapore under the Colombo Plan and the New Zealand Government was pleased to share with Singapore its experience in the industrial research field.

"I am confident that Mr. Pollard will be able to do much to help the Singapore Government attain the very important goal of rising productivity and living standards in the island being of which commands New Zealand's sympathetic interest," Mr. Nash added.—China Mail Special.

Scholarships offered by Canada

Ottawa, July 11.

The Canadian External Affairs Minister, Mr. Howard Green, announced today that the "Canadian Commonwealth Scholarship and Fellowship Committee" has offered awards to 104 scholars from other Commonwealth countries and territories.

The largest number (14) goes to India, followed by the United Kingdom (11), the West Indies Federation (10) and Pakistan (9).

The majority of the scholarships are awarded at the post-graduate level for a period of two years and candidates will be placed in universities throughout Canada.

The awards will cover transport costs, tuition fees and living expenses of the scholars while in Canada.—AFP.

375,000

The stamps — there are about 375,000 of them — were brought to the Festival Hall by armoured trucks from the banks where they had been kept and put under glass.

The most valuable single item is an envelope bearing two of the rare Mauritius penny stamps of 1847, which were mistakenly engraved with the words "Post Office" instead of "post paid." The owner of the envelope, valued at £40,000, is Mrs. Louise Boyd Dale, of New York, one of the contributors from 40 countries. The Queen has lent 48 pages of stamps which were in use 100 years ago.—China Mail Special.

Spanish Foreign Minister

London, July 11.

Mr. Fernando Maria Castiella, Spanish Foreign Minister, arrived here today by air for a two-day official visit to Britain as the guest of the British Government.

He was met at London Airport by the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Selwyn Lloyd.

Mr. Castiella's visit is the first to be paid officially to Britain by any Spanish foreign minister since General Franco came to power.

The British Government's invitation to him has aroused criticism here on the ground that he fought for Nazi Germany in the Spanish Blue Division in the last war.

NOT NATO

According to usually well-informed quarters, British ministers are unwilling to discuss the controversial question of the admission of Spain to Nato during Mr. Castiella's stay.

Tonight Mr. Lloyd was being host to Mr. Castiella at a government dinner in his honour.

Mr. Castiella said in a prepared statement on arrival: "I am most definitely not bringing into our talks anything to do with Spain's entry into Nato."—Reuter.

Actor dies

London, July 11.

Arthur Wootner, veteran British actor who appeared in movies as Sherlock Holmes and played numerous roles in more than 60 years on the stage, died on Sunday. He was 85.—AP.

THE GOLDEN PHOENIX

Nightclub & Restaurant 1st Fl. Mandarin Hotel

Proudly Presents Two Outstanding Floorshows!

THE DALRAYS

Dance to the music of PONCHING GARCIA and the Dynamic Dancers

Vocal by: LUCY MINDA

* The finest food in the Far East

ROY DE YONG & DELYSIA

Reservations: 63388

Marriage proposal at 100

London, July 11.

Mrs. Polly Flynn, who will be 100 tomorrow, has announced at Widnes, Lancashire, that she was considering a proposal of marriage.

Her suitor is 72-year-old widower Tom Purcell, who has been courting her for the past ten years.

Mrs. Flynn, who has been widowed three times, said: "Tom has proposed several times but I am never able to tell whether he is serious or not. He last proposed only a few days ago but I turned him out of the house. Now I am not so sure. 'After all they say life begins again when you are 100.'—China Mail Special.

STRANGE THINGS IN LOCH NESS

Loch Ness, July 11.

A joint scientific expedition of Oxford and Cambridge university students hunting the "Loch Ness monster" has taken photographs of phenomena on the loch which could explain away many of the tourist "sightings."

The leader of the expedition of 34 science students, Mr. Peter Baker, of Oxford University, said today: "There are all sorts of things going on in the loch which give the impression of there being something, such as still water among rough, unless you have looked at the water closely for a long time."

There are also objects in the loch such as cans and wood. "A motor boat in the distance, which is sometimes difficult to see, causes a pulsating motion in the water which could look like Nessie's humps were you determined to see her."

DEVELOPING

"But these things could explain away only a number of the reports. There are reports from local people which cannot be explained away," he added.

The photographs, taken during the first week of the search, have been sent away for developing to preclude any allegations of faking.

The dark depths of the loch, which goes down to 700 feet, have been searched by an echo sounder from a cabin cruiser, but so far nothing inexplicable has been recorded.—China Mail Special.

Barracks at last

Nicola, July 11.

Work began today on building modern barracks near Famagusta for British Army signalmen who have been living under canvas for more than 10 years.

The work, on a site within the British sovereign base in south east Cyprus, is expected to take two years and will include three three-storey barracks blocks, two messes and a guardblock.

(Complaints of leaking tents and muddy conditions in Cyprus army camps led to a British Government investigation late in 1958.)—China Mail Special.

GLOUCESTER: SLIPPED DISC

London, July 11.

The Duke of Gloucester, uncle of the Queen, is suffering from a slipped disc and has been advised by doctors to rest, it was announced from St. James's Palace, London, tonight.

The 60-year-old duke has cancelled a visit to Salisbury Plain tomorrow to watch a demonstration by the 2nd Battalion Scots Guards, the announcement added.

But he hopes to carry out some engagements later in the week.—Reuter.

COMMONWEALTH CADETS FOR CENTENARY

London, July 11.

A party of 18 army cadets have arrived in London from Trinidad, Tobago and Jamaica — vanguard of a special Commonwealth contingent visiting Britain this month for the centenary of the cadet movement.

Other Commonwealth contingents will follow in the next few days from Canada, New Zealand, Nigeria, Bermuda, St. Vincent, Ghana, India and Australia.

Main event of their stay will be the centenary parade on July 22 when the Queen, their Patron, and the Duke of Edinburgh, Colonel-in-Chief, will review a 1,500-strong detachment at Buckingham Palace.

They will in between visit naval and military depots around the country including the Army Cadet Force training centre at Frinton, Essex, near London, and the Royal Military College at Sandhurst.—China Mail Special.

LEE ASTOR

FINAL TO-DAY
AT 2.30, 5.20, 7.30 & 9.40 P.M.
(Please Note Change Of Times)

CARY: TONY GRANT: CURTIS

In Eastman COLOR

COLUMBIA PICTURES PRESENTS

A CALHOUN PRODUCTION • A UNIVERSAL INTERNATIONAL RELEASE

ARTHUR O'CONNELL

TO-MORROW

WIDE SCREEN

DUEL

REX HALL: JAMES: GREGORY: PETER: ROBERT: CAPTAIN

A CALHOUN PRODUCTION • A UNIVERSAL INTERNATIONAL RELEASE

ROXY & BROADWAY

★ SHOWING TO-DAY ★

Owing to length of picture please note change of times:
AT 2.30, 5.15, 7.30 & 9.40 P.M.

SEE THE LAND OF THE CONGO

THE INTERNATIONAL SCIENTIFIC FOUNDATION PRESENTS

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF HIS MAJESTY KING LEOPOLD III

LORDS OF THE FOREST

CINEMASCOPE • COLOR BY DE LUXE • STEREOGRAPHIC SOUND

FLASH! FLASH!

SPECIALLY ADDED ATTRACTION!

EXCLUSIVE!!!

WORLD HEAVYWEIGHT BOXING

INGEMAR JOHANSSON

Vs

FLOYD PATTERSON

RETURN MATCH

(Five Terrific Rounds)

See sensational Floyd Patterson

create boxing history by regaining his world heavyweight crown in this unprecedented fight, exclusive.

ORIENTAL MAJESTIC

AIR CONDITIONED

TO-DAY

AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 P.M.

Story from the hilarious Broadway smash hit!

Love, Laughs and Murderous Fun!

MGM presents

GLENN FORD

DEBBIE REYNOLDS

THE GAZEBO

COLUMBIA PICTURES PRESENTS

A CALHOUN PRODUCTION • A UNIVERSAL INTERNATIONAL RELEASE

THE 14TH DAY TO-DAY

AT 2.30, 5.20, 7.30 & 9.30 P.M.

Such popularity must be deserved!

European Nights

The Greatest Show on Earth!

Starring THE WORLD'S MOST TALENTED ARTISTS

Sponsored by FAYETTE OVERSEA LTD.

Tomorrow Morning Show

"WIND ACROSS THE EVERGLADES"

Next change: "The Third Voice"

Capitol

Return Engagement To-day Only * By Popular Demand

AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 P.M.

Toshiro MIFUNE • Koji TSURUTA

Yoshiko KUGA in

"YAGU SECRET SCROLLS"

In TohoScope & Color

With Superimposed English & Chinese Sub-titles

Opening To-morrow: "ANGRY HILLS"

To-morrow at 12.30 p.m. "BADMAN'S COUNTRY"

★

STAR

HELD OVER TO-DAY

AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 P.M.

KAZUO HASEGAWA

FUTIKO YAMAMOTO

RAIZO KAMO

In

"THE OGRE IN THE MOUNTAIN OF"

In DaisScope & Color

With Superimposed English & Chinese Sub-titles

To-morrow

"HARDY GRASP"

In CinemaScope & Color

THE TOAST OF TOASTS

HENNESSY

COGNAC BRANDY

James Bond

BY IAN FLEMING

DRAWING BY JOHN MCLUSKEY

FUNGALING BELL, THE

ORDER OF THE LEADING

HORSE, CARRIED HIS

SADDLE TO THE WEDDING

ROOM, THE SOUND BOOED.

TUESDAY

AND HOW TO GIVE ME BELL

HIS REMARK!

THIS FILM HAD PLANNED TO

STARRING DISGUISEDLY "GARY"

THE SHARPER KISS DID NOT DO JUSTICE

ATTENTION PLEASE

AN OBJECTION HAS

BEEN LODGED TO THE

SHOWING OF "THE

TUESDAY" DO NOT

DESTROY YOUR TIX

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

AND HOW TO GIVE ME BELL

HIS REMARK!

THIS FILM HAD PLANNED TO

STARRING DISGUISEDLY "GARY"

THE SHARPER KISS DID NOT DO JUSTICE

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

TUESDAY

FLY

Canadian Pacific

JAL-PROP

BRITANNIAS

TO TOKYO

AND WEST COAST

SEE YOUR TRAVEL AGENT, OR

Canadian Pacific AIRLINES

NEW YORK NEWSLETTER

by Jeremy Campbell

"I KNOW it's an isosceles triangle, madam, but what does it mean to you as a motorist?"

"I'm glad I'm not in business for myself. I wasted the whole darn day."

New York. MR Anthony Nutting, having made his stately, well-bred way across America to publicise Sam Spiegel's film Lawrence of Arabia, returned to New York recently exhausted, but, I would estimate, far from poor.

Publicity men of high calibre (the well-dressed ones are called "fancy flacks" in the American film business) are royally rewarded in Hollywood and Mr Nutting, an ex-Minister of the Crown (he resigned after a disagreement with Eden's policy over Suez) without superlatives, cigars or ulcers, has been regarded with incredulous respect right across the country.

The big money

A Hollywood critic said: "It's like Harry Truman coming here to do a plug for Otto Preminger."

And when I telephoned his Chicago hotel the porter, confused perhaps by his height, or the cut of his Foreign Office voice, or his suit, called him "Sir Anthony" throughout.

What is he being paid? "I've been accused of getting £30,000," he said. "And I'm flattered."

The most conservative estimate among New York public relations men is that Nutting is Suave Mr Nutting strikes it rich...

(EVEN BY HOLLYWOOD STANDARDS)

at the revolving end of not less than £20,000. But whatever it is, he gives you the impression that he has earned it.

"I've given seven interviews a day since I started," he said. "I didn't have the time to see Marion Brando (the likely star of the film) but in any case, I didn't go out to Hollywood to see him."

Later this year Mr Nutting is to prove his usefulness to his employer, Sam Spiegel, by going out to the Arab countries where the film is to be shot, smoothing the way, and arranging introductions with his many influential friends.

'No trouble'

Americans have pointed out with some bitterness that many Hollywood film workers are Jews, and have been unable to get clearance to work in Egypt with units on location there. But Mr Nutting assures them that all will be well.

"There will be no trouble," he says. "The King of Jordan says he will be delighted to see us."

After a year, however, Mr Nutting will be out of a job again. He has no ambitions in Hollywood, and only accepted the job because of his admiration for Lawrence of Arabia.

"Richard Aldington's attack on him was the most prejudiced book I have ever read, apart from Randolph Churchill's book on Eden. And you can quote me."

The clear implication of his remarks is that he would like to get back into the Government, if the Government would have him. But as the smoothest publicist on this side of the Atlantic, the entire American film business has made it clear that they would like him for their own.

GEORGE JESSELL, who may produce Vivien Leigh in the filmed life of Mary Todd Lincoln, was asked if the film Exodus followed the book closely. "I don't know," he said. "But it opens with Fred Waring's band."

She's back!

PROTESTING that there is nothing she likes less, Tallulah Bankhead is coming back to Broadway after a long illness.

She came to lunch in pink trousers, smoked through all the courses, called a waiter "Darling" and talked incessantly for an hour and a half.

Her conversation makes you feel at times that you are drowning in very good champagne, and clutching vainly at the slippery sides of her metaphors; at others that you are being beaten over the head with rolled-up newspapers.

I did get a whole sentence out, once, over the coffee, but it wasn't a very long one.

"But I loathe the stage, darling," she cried, as soon as I sat down. "I've been trying to get out of it ever since I was 16. I hate everything about it—stoking my hair under the drier and talking to all those boring people who come up to you, and the theatres are so filthy I spend half my time in the bath."

A woman hovered up with an autograph book, almost inarticulate with respect, but managing to tell Miss Bankhead that she looked just like her sister.

Ribs broken

"God help your sister," respected Miss Bankhead. "If she's as ugly as I am."

"Ghed," she went on, "I wouldn't have come back into the theatre if I didn't need the money. I was flat on my back with five broken ribs and nephritis and I weigh eight and a half stone. The newspapers were too unkind, they made me out to be practically dying. I was dying, but they had no right to say so."

At this point the producer rushed out to buy Miss Bankhead an aspirin, and she touched briefly on the delicate subject of her age.

"I'm not getting any younger," she admitted. "But Somerset Maugham said my bone structure was very good, so I'm all right for a bit longer." Miss Bankhead does not mix readily with theatre people (she had just come away from a blazing row with an actor). She surrounds herself with priests, judges, authors, pachambers, jockeys, baseball outfielders and politicians.

She lists her interests as, (1) poker and (2) politics.

A Democrat

"I'm a Democrat," she said. "All intellectuals are Democrats, thank God. Last election I said I would be on the wagon until Adlai Stevenson was in the White House."

"This time I'm for Kennedy, but I'm not actually giving up drink for him."

We mentioned the other candidates, and Miss Bankhead, who had been speaking for nearly 90 minutes, unaided, laughed her laugh which is like muffled gun-fire and said: "Humphrey's O.K., but he talks too much."

FOOTNOTE to Sir Victor Sassoon. Miss Bankhead says she sent you £10 to put on St Paddy just before the Derby. She hasn't heard from you since.

(London Express Service).

Crisis in Singapore's People's Action Party

THE BIG SMEAR!

SINGAPORE'S socialist People's Action Party is now in the throes of a struggle for power within the party with the leftwing white collar group led by Mr Ong Eng-guan, suspended Minister for National Development, fighting to take over leadership from the moderates led by the Prime Minister, Mr Lee Kuan-yew.

Mr Ong has already been relieved of his duties as Minister for National Development and his expulsion from the party is still being considered by the central executive committee of the ruling body of the party of which he was a member as treasurer of the party and former minister.

This political crisis in the party has been brewing for a long time and ever since Mr Ong, a 35-year-old accountant, was ousted—by a very small majority—for the premiership post last year by Mr Lee, he has been trying to gather forces to take over leadership of the party and government.

At the moment the moderates seem to have the upper hand in the present one-sided mud-slinging match now being waged in Singapore.

But one unknown factor in the present crisis is the stand that the very powerful leftwing workers group led by Mr Lim Chin-siong will take. Will his group remain neutral in the present row or take sides?

Mr Ong is best remembered as the fiery P.A.P. Mayor of Singapore who in doing away with the last "vestiges of colonialism" in the City Council, done away with the mace, the Queen's picture, pictures of former presidents of the City Council, the Union Jack, and refused to wear mayoral robes.

During his 1½-year-rule as the Mayor in Whites, he ruled the City Council with an iron hand and was accused on many occasions by opposition members of being a "pocket dictator."

Leaderless

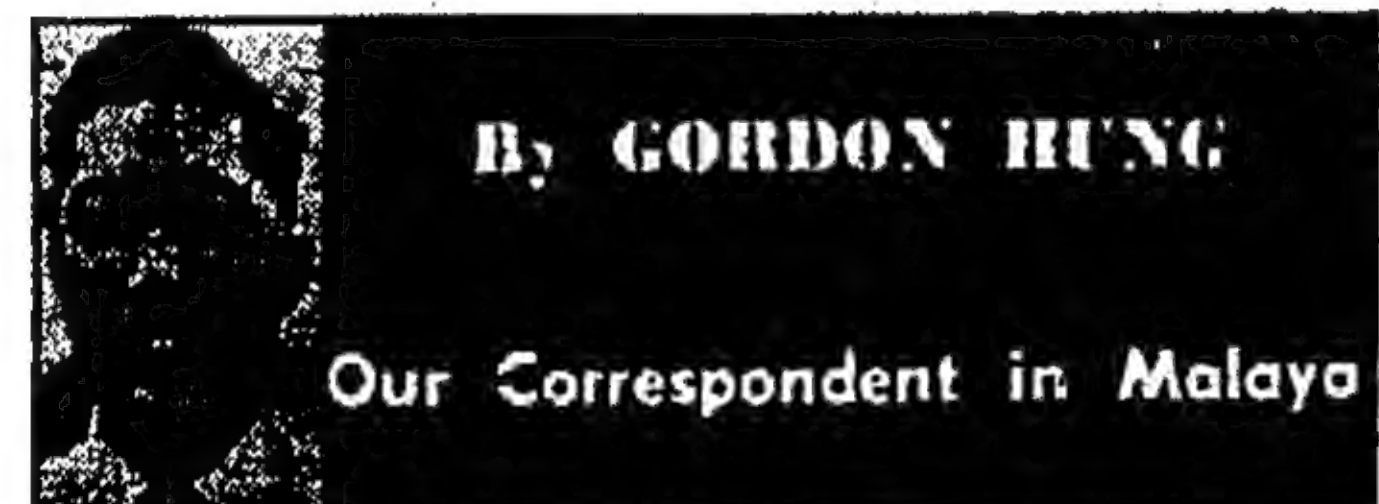

Since the falling of P.A.P. Assemblyman, Mr Lim Chin-siong in 1955 under the Preservation of Public Security Ordinance, after the student riots, the Singapore Chinese-educated electorate had been left more or less leaderless.

Mr Ong's frequent attacks against the British and colonialism in general earned him a large following from among this group of residents.

His popularity with the voters was such that when he stood for election to the new Legislative Assembly last year in the Hong Lim constituency, which is part of Chinatown, he won, his seat with the largest majority that any candidate received in the entire election.

Riding on this wave of popularity, the only thing that seemed to stop him from becoming Singapore's first Prime Minister was the formality of a vote by the ruling body of the P.A.P. — the central executive committee — of which he was a member.

But he lost the vote and premiership to Mr Lee. The new

By GORDON HING

Our Correspondent in Malaya

were described by the central executive committee of the party as a direct "challenge to the party's collective leadership" and merely "red herrings to draw attention away from the real and immediate issue—the rampant individualism of one man."

At the conference, Ministers, parliamentary secretaries and assemblymen stood up and accused Mr Ong of a whisper campaign against members of the Government and against his own colleagues in the cabinet.

He was said to have accused the Prime Minister, Mr Lee Kuan-yew, of being pro-colonial and being used by British intelligence... stole the party chairman and deputy Prime Minister, Dr Toh Chin-chye's idea of a national construction corps, and claimed all the credit for himself... said that in the P.A.P. there were three groups—the rightists, the Communists and genuine socialists... he was the only genuine socialist in the party... branding the party as pro-colonial... practised the personality cult... blackening the names of the various ministries and Government officials... smeared fellow cabinet ministers... attempted to split the party and disrupt harmony among its members and leaders.

Powerful

Mr Lim and his friends are now holding responsible positions in the Government-reorganised Trades Union Congress and also hold political secretary jobs with the various ministries.

This powerful leftwing trade union group led by Mr Lim has a very big following among the workers and students, and it was only a matter of course before Mr Ong was seeking Mr Lim with hopes of making a united leftwing front to oust the moderates from power.

Then came the sacking of Mr Ong for "challenging the party's collective leadership and disrupting party unity" from his ministerial position and suspension from the policy-making body of the party until a decision on his expulsion had been made.

His sacking came as no great surprise but it was the way in which it was done.

A weekend conference of the party's central executive committee, assembly and branch executive met supposedly for a review of the past year's activities.

Instead, the conference took on all the trappings of People's Court with Mr Ong as defendant.

The minutes of the meeting were released to the public the following day, in which it was seen that all party members present except one stood up to tell of the "evil-doings" of Mr Ong.

The great smear campaign had begun and by the end of the meeting the conference unanimously voted to recommend Mr Ong's expulsion from the party to the central executive committee.

This sacking had been precipitated by his tabling of a resolution which had the unanimous backing of his constituency in Hong Lim. These resolutions ment but the statement accused Mr Ong of being in no hurry to do this as he wanted to retain control over "the City Council empire."

Eventually, the Prime Minister stepped in and took over the council and rural board, which Mr Ong had so far refused to hand over. It was then found that friends of Mr Ong, without the necessary technical experience, had been put into senior jobs in the council and that many engineers had resigned from the various departments, the statement said.

Sour taste

Mr Ong's Ministry was also put in charge of the housing problem and asked to reorganise the Singapore Improvement Trust and establish a new housing authority to provide more cheap houses for the poor.

Here again, said the statement, Mr Ong did nothing and in fact many of the engineers and architects in S.I.T. resigned.

Without consulting his fellow Ministers or even the Prime Minister, he announced, to the public his $400 million low cost housing plan for which there were no funds.

But the public denunciation has left a sour taste in many mouths and already two P.A.P. assemblymen have come out into the open and thrown in their lot with Mr Ong. The P.A.P. branch of Hong Lim is still 100 per cent behind Mr Ong, so much so that the branch has now been suspended for "flagrantly flouting the party's directive on three successive occasions."

If Mr Ong's expulsion is ratified by the central executive committee he will lose his seat in the Legislative Assembly and there will have to be a by-election in Hong Lim.

But there is only one person in the P.A.P. who might be able to beat Mr Ong in the election—Mr Lim Chin-siong. Even the Prime Minister would not have a chance in the constituency.

But it is very doubtful if Mr Lim wants to be a chopping block for Mr Lee and this moderate, who would chuckle in secret if he was defeated, telling himself he had nothing to fear from the left now.

Mr Lim and his leftwing trade union hold the key to the crisis but it is likely that Mr Lim will stay neutral in the present dispute hoping that the present crisis may harm the moderates so much that he and his leftwingers can take over control of the party and then government.

TOMORROW

They Left Their Touch...

Roderick Mann They done me wrong, says Lucky Luciano

THE drill for contacting Lucky Luciano along the Naples waterfront is actually quite simple.

You pass the word around at the California restaurant that you are looking for him, and sure enough, out of nowhere, he suddenly appears.

Now what should one expect of the last big surviving gangster of that distinguished class of "30—which included such immortal names as Al Capone, Dutch Schultz, Blue-Jaw Magoon and Bugsy Siegel?

Some aura of menace, undoubtedly. Some nostalgic souvenir of those carefree days when the boys went around doing delicate filigree work upon each other with the aid of Mr Thompson's celebrated machine-guns.

For in any Who's Who of the Mob, Lucky Luciano must rate considerable space. Albert Anastasia, the Lord High Executioner for Murder Inc. (who was rubbed out recently in a barber's chair) always said: "Lucky was the greatest."

ALL SMILES

Alarm and despondency were widespread among the Mob when Lucky was jailed in 1936 and then—ten years later—released and deported to Naples.

Yet there he stood, smiling benevolently, for all the world like some philanthropic art collector.

Silver hair, smiling eyes; crisply laundered shirt; shoes buffed spotless by countless shoe-shines; a diamond in his finger.

A distinguished-looking gentleman indeed. And one of whose activities you are about to hear more—for he is now collaborating on a film of his life: The Lucky Luciano Story.

"I tell you," he said, the speaks in broad Brooklynese—but I will not attempt to repeat it here, "I tell you, I been thinking about this film for a long time."

"See, I seed what they did to my friend Al Capone in that picture they made of his life. That was terrible. Al wasn't like that. I knew him better than anybody. He wasn't no murdering roughneck like they showed. Al was all right."

Well, this upper me, I figured they might make a similar film about my life and show me in the wrong light too. Murders, and all that. So I decided to make a deal whereby I got a say in the final film. And that's what I done."

'Who's going to play you?'

He chuckled. An ordinary chuckle; nothing menacing.

"Well, now, I admit that's difficult. See, all them actors who were so good at playing gangsters is passe now—people like George Raft and Edward G. Robinson. George Raft was a great guy. I knew him in the old Broadway days. And Edward G. Robinson was always ace-high in my book."

'How about Frank Sinatra?'

"He'd be O.K. I knew Frank too—but I ain't seen him since we was in Cuba together after the war."

"Say, he's done all right, huh? I used to wonder how he'd make out. He had so many chips on his shoulder and he was always fighting. But I liked him for that. Yeah, Sinatra would be O.K."

'MY HUMOUR'

"See, I want someone who'll show my sensitive side; my sensa humour. That's where the Al Capone film scared me. They made him out to be just a thug."

"Well, I'm no angel, true. And they gotta exaggerate things to make my story interesting. But all those murders and stuff—that's ridiculous."

"What sort of money do you expect to make out of the film? Fifty thousand?"

"Fifty thousand," he echoed. "Now what would I do with that kind of money? That's chickenfeed. No, I want four times that much for my story."

"Do you plan that this film will correct the mistaken impressions we all seem to have about you?"

"That's what I hope. Like how I came to be called 'Lucky'. The papers always print that I got called that because I once walked back from a gang-ride. Listen—nobody ever walked back from a gang-ride. Those rides ended in the river. I got called Lucky when I was a kid because my real name was Luciano—see?"

He stopped smiling for a moment and looked depressed.

"I want people to know the truth about me," he said. "See, in the States they still blame me for everything. Drug-trafficking; the lot. It's easy, see. They can't get the real people, so they blame me. Listen, if they had that much on me—they tore a snippet from the newspaper on the table and held it up to me—'if they had that much on me they'd pull me in. But they got nothing.'"

"It's the kids who do the crimes in the States now. There are too big people any more. The kids get the drug habit, and they gotta have the stuff, so they rob and kill for it."

"What's the answer to that one?"

"Legalise drugs. Let drug-addicts be registered. That way you'd stamp out the crime. But it would also put a lot of people in the Nar-aples. He chuckled to himself once more, and got up to go.

'IT'S DULL'

"Do you get bored here?" I asked. (Although no longer under curfew, Luciano is kept under strict police surveillance.)

"Yeah," he said. "But I'm 63 now, and I don't wanna do so much any more. Every now and again people come down—like Raymond Chandler, before he died. But it can be dull."

"If you had your time again, what would you do?"

"That's easy," he said. "I'd do it legal. Too late, I learned that you need just as good a brain to make a crooked million as an honest million."

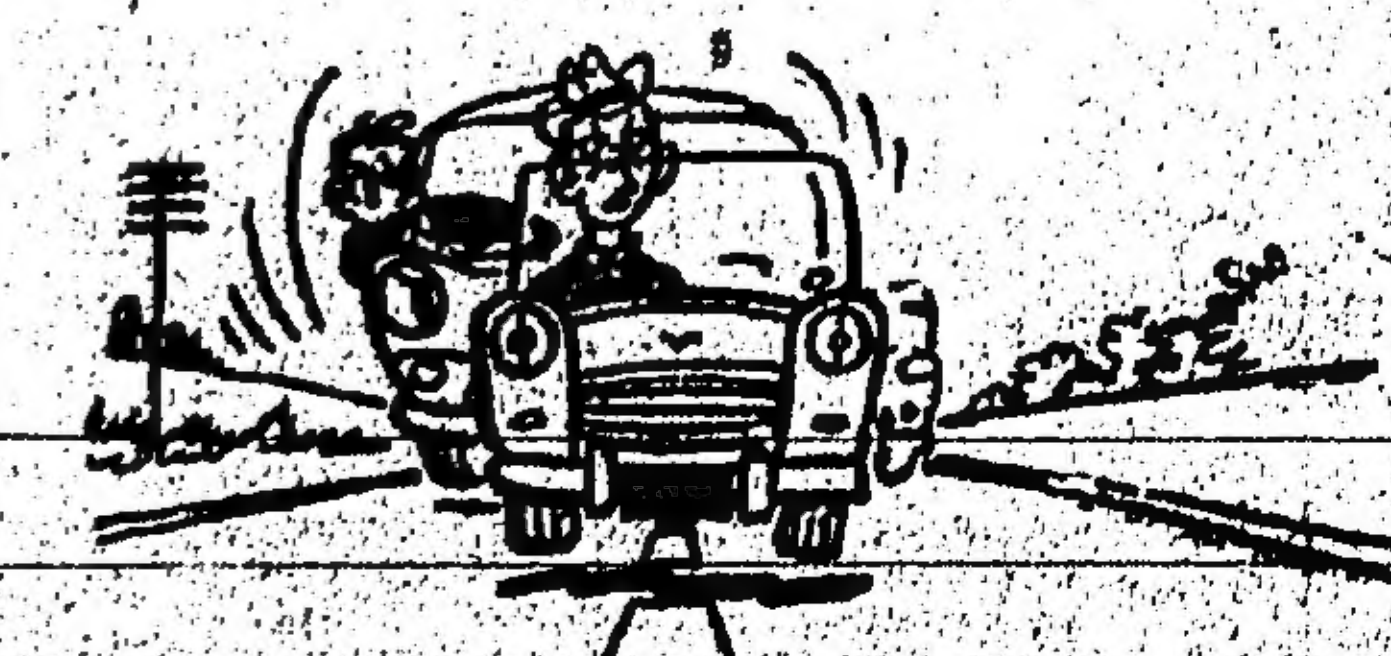

"These days you apply for a licence to steal from the public. If I had my time again I'd make sure I got that licence first."

Then he grinned and was gone.

(London Express Service).

MEET MR CLOGGHEAD

* CLOG: ANYTHING THAT HINDERS MOTION OR REndERS DIFFICULT.

Mr Clogghead now teeps to the left of the road. He doesn't see only he should make it safer for those who want to overtake.

With its low-cut back and folded, stiffened skirt, it is one of those endlessly useful little party numbers that will see you through dozens of summer and autumn occasions.

EVERY YEAR THERE ARE MORE OF THEM. THE PEOPLE WHO ARE BORN LEFT-HANDED

Whatever the result, all Sinistrals feel a thrill of pride as Australia's Rod Laver and Neale Fraser met on the Centre Court recently. It was the first "southpaw" final in Wimbledon's history.

The title has been won twice before by a left-hander—by Norman Brookes of Australia in 1914, and by Jaroslav Drobný 40 years later. A left-handed girl has never triumphed, Ann Haydon lost the other day and Kay Stammers was beaten in the final in 1939.

Most distinguished

The most distinguished left-hander ever to appear at Wimbledon was knocked out in the first round. He played in the Gentlemen's Doubles in Wimbledon's Jubilee Year, 1926. His partner: Sir Louis Greig, equerry.

Their opponents (unluckily for them): the formidable combination of champion A. W. Gore and H. Roper Barrett. The score: immaterial. But the man who played left-handed was the Duke of York, later King George VI. Though "shifted" in handwriting, he had been allowed to use his natural inclination in sport.

There is, in fact, no stigma attached to the "southpaw" (a term originating in boxing and baseball) as far as sport is concerned.

Loaded

In other spheres, encouragement or discouragement varies according to country and religion. Most languages are loaded against the left-hander—our own meaning for "sinister," "gauche," and "left-handed compliment," for example, are reflected in many lands.

The left-hander has always had to submit to being "shifted" or to risk being a misfit.

Boys—perhaps because they are usually more stubborn than girls—form the larger proportion of Sinistrals. And the proportion, in advanced countries, is growing, until in Britain, the United States, France and Scandinavia among others, it may be as high as eight per cent of the population.

Surprise

In the Soviet Union, as in other Iron Curtain countries, conformity to the right-hand in schools is compulsory, which makes the appearance at Wimbledon of left-handed Anna Dimentieva from Russia all the more remarkable.

Presumably the Russians agree with the West in one thing—leave the natural southpaw alone in international sport. The World Fencing Champion in Epee last year was a Sinistral Soviet citizen.

Just as the left-hander's main characteristic is individuality, so the left-hander's main weapon is surprise.

Switch

The reverse is true; but as the old master, Drobný, once told me: "You get so used to it, you polish up your backhand," which explains why in his heyday Drobný possessed the finest backhand stroke in world tennis.

Krishnan loses in Swedish tennis final

Basel, July 11. Luis Ayala of Chile, beat India's Ramakrishnan 6-1, 6-0, 6-4 in the men's singles final of the Swedish International Lawn Tennis Championships here today.

Ayala thus retained the title he won by beating Krishnan last year, and avenged his straight set defeat by the Indian player in this year's Wimbledon quarter-final.

Sweden's Ulf Schmidt and Jan Erik Lundquist won the men's doubles title by defeating the United States pair, Hugh Stewart and "Chuck" McKinley, 7-5, 6-3, 6-1.

In the mixed doubles final, the Swedish pair, Torsten Johansson and Gudrun Rosta had a walkover victory, as West Germany's Wolfgang Stuck was suffering from a tooth abscess and was unable to play with his regular partner, Sven Lindberg.

As a Sinistral, today gives me quite a kick...

By MICHAEL BARSLEY

Mrs Beverley Fleitz (originally Beverley Baker, the first blonde bombshell to take Wimbledon by storm) was completely ambidextrous and could switch from left to right hand at will and so quickly you couldn't see her doing it.

In the Roman arenas there were special instructions to gladiators on how to combat a left-handed opponent.

Cricketers

"Little Mo," Connolly is perhaps the most remarkable Sinistral of them all. A complete left-hander and an enthusiastic tennis player, she was once told by a boy-friend, she insists in her autobiography, not by her later coach, Miss "Teach," Tennant—that if she didn't play right-handed she'd never get to the top at Wimbledon.

Left-handedness, in games and other activities, goes back far into history. In the Old Testament the tribe of Benjamin had, as their commando force, 700 left-handed slingers "who could sling a stone at an hair's breadth and not miss."

Many other famous names could be added: Neil Harvey, Arthur Morris and fast bowler, Meckiff from down under; Sobers, Worrell, Valentine from the West Indies; and a long line of English players from Hedley Verity, Frank Woolley and Denis Compton to Subba Row in the present Test series.

Slatham is an exception in that he bats left-handed and bowls right-handed. From the present South African team the left-handers include Wesley, O'Lyons, and Goddard. By a remarkable coincidence, the West Indies captain in 1967 was also called Goddard, and was also a Sinistral.

In golf, left-handedness is so frequent that there is a left-handed Golfers Society. The new President is Ben (not Hogan) but Warriss.

He, like the others, is dedicated to the task of trying to reduce the price of left-handed golf clubs.

Hazards

Left-handedness in football is also one of the accepted hazards of the game, and I have seen Bobbie Charlton, taking a penalty for England fool the goalkeeper by switching to his right foot at the last moment.

American baseball acknowledges the undying fame of southpaw Babe Ruth, and although no southpaw boxer has ever won a world heavyweight title, some other fighters, like Dave Charney, have produced surprise wins.

The Rowe Twins, one left, one right, have used their forehands to great effect in table tennis. Take it as far as Tiddlywinks, and the Sinistral has every reason to be satisfied.

I am all for the rights of the left-handers. A big hand, therefore, to Laver and Fraser, for their unique achievement.

(London Express Service)

THE PRICE OF SPEED

PETER RADFORD... and the scar

PETER 'WINS' SCAR

By SYDNEY HULLS

A six-inch scar disfigured Peter Radford's neck recently.

It is a painful souvenir of his great win over David Jones, Robbie Brightwell, and Dave Segal in the 200 metres at Aldersley Stadium, Wolverhampton.

The scarlet mark was cut by the winning "tape"—a strand of wool so thin a child could snap it in two.

And it is the vivid proof of Radford's tremendous speed when he hurtles across the line.

Radford refuses sympathy, says with relief: "I've never wanted to win a race so much."

'I had to win'

"David Jones has beaten me twice. Dave Segal has had such fantastically fast times in America recently. I felt I just had to win."

Then, gingerly feeling the red scorch mark, the 20-year-old Walsall schoolteacher explains:

"I thought I could hear Segal pounding up close behind me. To make sure of winning I dived low for the line, went too low and caught my neck."

This is the second time Radford has had to pay this painful price to prove he is Britain's greatest sprinter.

Segal, beaten for the first time in 46 races, was so downcast after managing only fourth place in 21.5 sec. behind Radford's winning 21 sec. But he explained that his defeat was due to:

The bad state of the inside lane on which he ran;

Week-long anxiety over the possible outcome of his interview with the Southern Committee of the Amateur Athletic Association, who severely reprimanded Segal on Friday for running without permission in America;

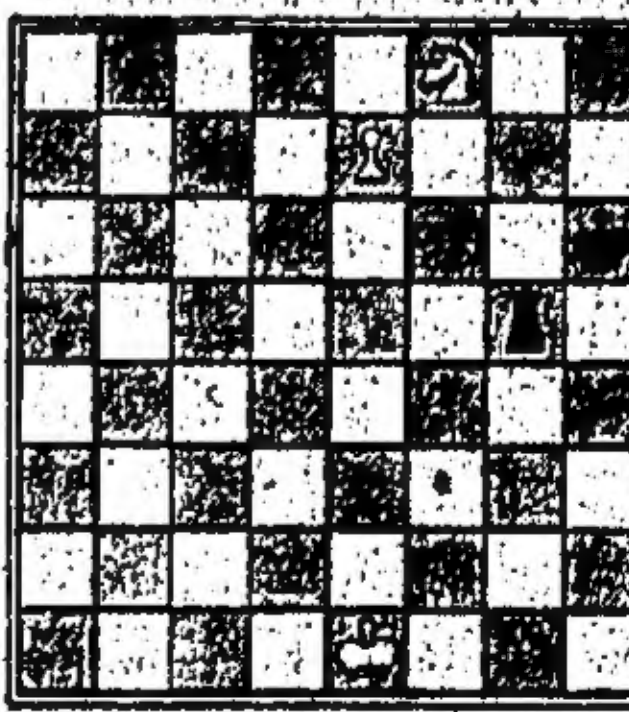

No competition for three weeks and, finally, a puzzling statement that he is really a 100-metre man.

Griffin turns down League offer

London, July 11. Geoff Griffin, the controversial South African fast bowler has turned down the offer from Hiltrow, the Central Lancashire club to play in League cricket for the next three years. He is bound by his South African contract not to accept such offers.—A.P.P.

CHESS

By LEONARD BARDEN

Here is an endgame study by F. Lazard: White to move and win.

Solution No. 5851: 1. R-B5 (winning); 2. Q-R7 or B mate according to reply.

(London Express Service)

Soccer news from other lands

"F.A. News", the official journal of the Football Association, reports the following items of soccer news in its latest issue:

No card-playing before an international match, the team manager of the Belgian side has decided. It's no relaxation, he maintains, just unnecessary excitement.

Although she lost 1-0 to Brazil in her last match, Argentina has won the Panamerican Championship. She had nine points from six matches. Brazil was second (7 points), Costa Rica third and Mexico fourth. Uruguay boycotted the competition as all South American football associations had cancelled their entries for the South American Youth Championship due to be held in Uruguay.

The inmates of a lunatic asylum in Athens beat a team of municipal officials by five goals to one. It is to be noted that while the officials committed 14 fouls the winners scrupulously followed the rules.

The Soviet Union, which went into the international field in 1952, has since played 44 matches against 15 countries. Twenty-six of these have been won and ten drawn. Left-half back Netto has played in 22 games, outside-left Ilyin in 20, and goalkeeper Yashin in 20.

Chile's recent European tour was little short of disastrous. The South Americans lost to France (0-6), West Germany (1-2), Eire (0-2) and Switzerland (2-4). Only the last two matches were drawn—1-1 with Belgium and 3-3 with Internazionale-Milan.

It happened in Sweden: The vicar of the village church at Borstskog concluded his sermon thus: "I see in the eyes of my congregation a certain concern. I can dispel it with five minutes to go. Borstskog F.C. are leading Tingsstad 2-0."

A Dominican monk, writing on soccer in the Italian ecclesiastical publication "Rivista del Clero Italiano," says that a pious player commits a sin if he does not train very hard or play with all his skill. Other sins listed: threats against the referee, dirty fouls, retaliatory action. Banews Service.

Sports Diary

TO-DAY

Presentation of medals to R.C. Pilsa Team by H.E. the Governor of Government House, 4.15 p.m.

Bowls: Colony Championship Open Pair third round: Pilsa vs. E.K.C. K.C.C. vs. K.C.C. at 5.30 p.m.

League Championship: Open Singles first round matches at K.C.C. K.C.C. vs. P.C.C. at 5.30 p.m.

TO-MORROW: Bowls: Colony Championship: Open Triples matches at K.C.C. P.C.C. vs. K.C.C. at 5.30 p.m.

Meeting: H.K.A. Welfare Sub-Committee meeting, Cosmos Club top floor, 5.30 p.m.

FROM THE CHOICE OF THE VINE...

HENNESSY COGNAC

CALL

59195

FOR GENUINE DRYCLEANING

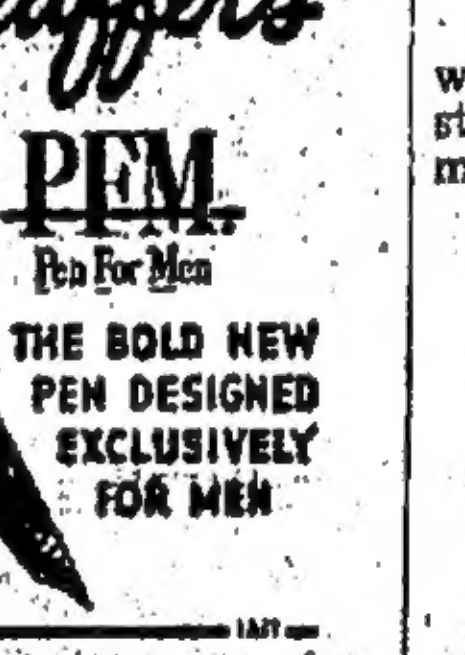

COLLECTION and DELIVERY

SERVICE

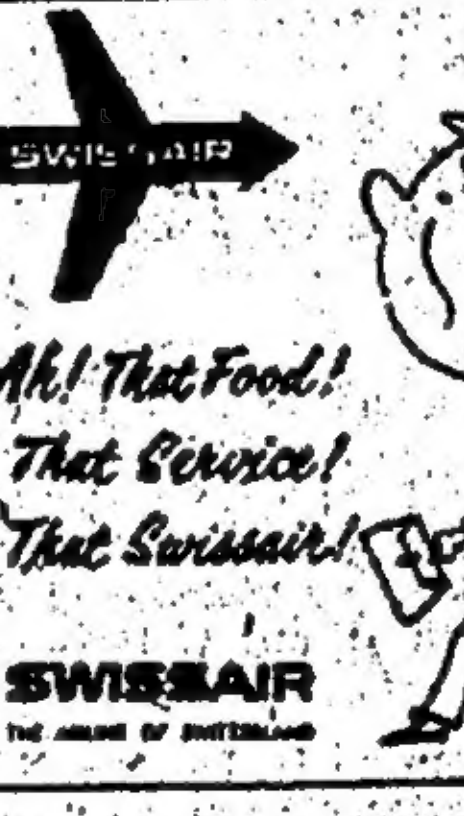

THE DRY CLEANING CO.

No. 1, Kowloon, Hong Kong

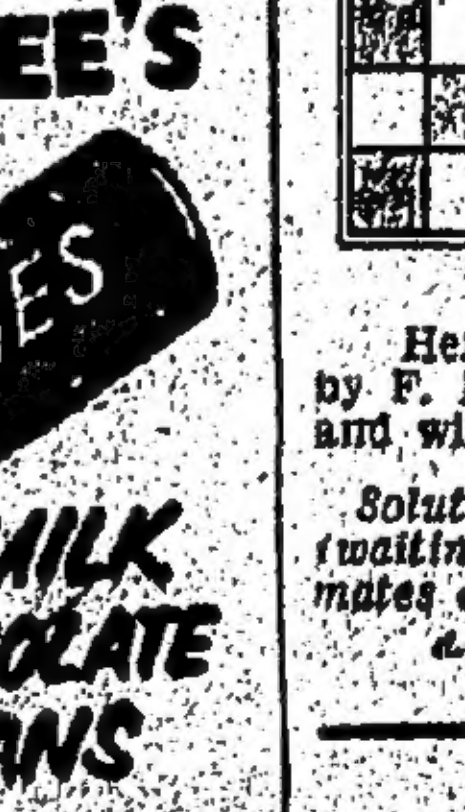

Four D. Jones BY MADDOCKS

FERD'NAND

NANCY

BRICK BRADFORD

As always, DEFORD is Best

STOLE $8,500 OF RUBBER

A 24-year-old tallyman of the China Provident Co Ltd was sentenced to a total of two years' jail by Mr I. T. Morris at Central Court this morning when he admitted stealing 27 bales of rubber from the godown.

Defendant was Tsang Wing-ko, living in 122 Belcher Street, third floor. He had five previous convictions, three of which were for theft.

Sub-inspector A. G. Whitehead told the court that in November, 1958 the Fung Keung Rubber Co. Ltd, deposited 180 bales of rubber on the premises of the China Provident Co Ltd and from time to time they drew upon this stock in the course of business.

On July 1, this year, a check was made of the stock and 20 bales were found missing.

Sent to factory

An immediate and careful examination of the books and stocks were made and it was discovered that on June 3, a delivery order had been made showing that five bales had been sent to the factory.

However, it was found that the subject matter of the delivery order referred to 100 bales of rice and not rubber.

Defendant was then questioned and he admitted that he had misappropriated the five bales referred to.

Inspector Whitehead said the police were then called in to investigate the matter and under caution defendant admitted stealing five bales of rubber on June 3, 15 bales of rubber a few days later and seven more bales on May 20.

Not recovered

None of the property was recovered. The total value of the goods stolen was $8,500.

Defendant told the court he had sent $7,000 of the proceeds from the sale of the goods to relatives on the mainland and there was no prospect of restitution.

CONSUL TO OPEN NEW CENTRE

American Consul-General, Mr Julius C. Holmes, will open Hongkong's first Community Centre at Wong Tai Sin resettlement estate this afternoon.

It was built and equipped with a donation from the U.S. Government for World Refugee Year. Staffing and running costs of the centre will, however, be paid by the Hongkong Government and four voluntary welfare organisations.

This is the first of a number of such centres all planned to be built in resettlement estates to encourage people who live there—mostly refugees—to feel they are citizens of Hongkong.

Wong Tai Sin was chosen as the first estate to have a community centre, because it is the second largest in Hongkong, housing 40,000.

Its population will reach 75,000 in two or three years' time.

All the social services available to the inhabitants of this area will be concentrated under the one roof of the community centre. It is also designed as a meeting place for recreation.

The community centre in the picture at right, taken by staff photographer this morning, has five stories.

The next community centre to be built will be completed in March next year. It will be at the Tung Shue Wai Estate, near the Airport.

Hid among vegetables: man flees from China

Macao, July 12. A lone farmer from the Chin Shan district across the Macao border, successfully eluded Communist officials, hid himself in a lorry, fully loaded with vegetables for the Macao market, and found freedom here yesterday.

As soon as the vehicle arrived in Macao the stowaway jumped off the truck and ran for safety, with the driver and his assistant hot on his heels.

He managed to elude his pursuers and soon disappeared among a large crowd of onlookers.—AFP.

Decision in policy case reserved

Mr Justice C. W. Rafter, Acting Senior Judge, in the Supreme Court this morning reserved decision in an action brought by an insurance company in respect of a car insurance policy.

The plaintiffs, the United Insurance Company, Ltd., asked for a declaration that they were entitled to avoid an insurance policy issued to a merchant, Chan Park-sang, in respect of his Austin car.

They claimed that Chan, in an application form for insurance, had replied in the negative to a question whether he or his driver had been convicted of any traffic offence. The plaintiffs claimed that the answer "no" to the question was a non-disclosure of fact or a misrepresentation of material facts. The driver, they said, had been fined $40 for careless driving.

Chan claimed that the form was presented to him for his signature by a broker, Wong Tam, and that he did not know the content of the form.

Chan also claimed that he knew the driver had been convicted of careless driving.

The plaintiffs were represented by Mr Richard Winter, instructed by Mr J. C. B. Slack.

Mr Lawrence Leong represented Chan on the instruction of Mr Edmund Cheung.

CASH TO CHINA

Cheque for sightless
children

This China Mail picture shows (left to right) Mrs I. N. Lindemann, Dr Wilhelm Thomes, Mrs H. Kohlisch, and Miss E. Morgenstern at this morning's presentation.

German residents' gift to blind

The German Consul in Hongkong, Dr Wilhelm A. Thomes, this morning presented a cheque for $945 to Miss Eve Morgenstern, Superintendent of the Ebenezer Home and School for the Blind at Pokfulam.

He was accompanied by two members of Hongkong's German Community, Mrs I. Lindemann and Mrs H. Kohlisch, at the presentation.

Dr Thomes said that the money had been collected from among the 300-strong community.

Miss Morgenstern said that she had no immediate plans for the use of the money, "but it will certainly be useful."

Uganda troop movements

Kampala, July 11. The Governor of Uganda, Sir Frederick Crawford, today discussed with top officials here whether the King's African Rifles should be sent to West Nile, a Uganda district bordering the former Belgian Congo, a spokesman said.

Other possible troop movements also were discussed.

Refugees continued to flood into Uganda today and the authorities were doing their best to shuttle them on to Kenya so there would be room for new-comers. Uganda and Kenya officials were working together on the problem.—Reuter.

Poison attacks kids

NEW YORK. Very young children account for about one-fourth of the 1400 deaths each year from poisoning by solids and liquids, statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. report.

Under age five, the most frequent killers are aspirin, kerosene and other petroleum products, lead and its compounds, and household pesticides containing arsenic compounds or other lethal ingredients.—UPI.

Man tells of assault in Kowloon street

A paint scraper described before Judge W. F. Pickering at the Victoria District Court this morning how he was attacked and robbed by a group of people in Shumshuipo.

On trial are Lai Chiu, 25, and Wong Keung, 28, both unemployed, who denied that they had robbed Fung Tak-cheung of a wrist watch and a purse and hit him with a bamboo pole.

Fung testified that about 11 p.m. on June 2, he was walking in Shumshuipo, intending to visit a friend there.

In Hoi Tan Street, the first accused approached him and asked if he wanted any dangerous drugs. He replied in the negative and went away.

As he turned into Yen Chow Street, he said, someone suddenly grabbed his neck, pushed him to the ground, stepped on him and kicked him. Several other persons were also around and hit him with a bamboo pole.

He said he fainted and when he recovered, he found that his watch and a purse containing $40 were missing.

He then hailed a passing police van and was taken to hospital where he was detained for several days.

The hearing is continuing.

Chief Inspector T. W. Wheeler is prosecuting.

London, July 11. A young woman, attractive and smartly dressed in black, drove a black Jaguar up Brompton Road and into Montpelier Street, Kensington, the other day. She stopped at No. 1—a hair shop.

Mr Jan Coomer, of Beaufort Gardens, looked out of his window when he heard the crash of glass.

He said later: "I saw the woman step forward and take an armful of furs from the window."

"She put them in the Jaguar and returned for another armful."

SHE HESITATES

"On the way back to the car she dropped a fur. She hesitated, then walked on without it."

"She jumped into the car and drove off up Montpelier Street like a race-driver."

"I saw the fur lying in the road and I went down to pick it up. It was a black fur coat. It was a very expensive one. I took it home and I am sure it was a very valuable one."

The case was heard at the Central Criminal Court today. The woman, who was charged with theft, was found guilty and sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment.

CRIPPLED WOMAN'S REQUEST TO TRIBUNAL PRESIDENT

A crippled woman, Ho Chi-ying, asked Mr B. V. Rhodes, President of the Tenancy Tribunal this morning, to arrange to pay $1,000 compensation awarded her, to the Salvation Army to keep for her.

The woman occupies a bed-space at 151, Temple Street, Yau-mat, which, with 153, was recommended for exemption by the Tribunal this morning.

She has no financial resources and receives relief from the Salvation Army. She has found alternative accommodation she told the Tribunal.

A total sum of $81,400 was recommended by the Tribunal to be paid to the 23 opponents of the application for exemption.

To restaurant owner

Of this, $40,000 will go to Ho Chi-ying, proprietor of a restaurant on the ground floor of 151, established there since 1946.

A tenement building of six storeys will replace the existing two storey houses, and will be completed in 12 months.

The applicant was Mr Chan Woo, who was represented by Mr F. Zimmerman, of F. Zimmerman and Co. Mr Benjamin Liu, instructed by Hastings and Co., appeared for the opponents.

With Mr Rhodes on the Tribunal were Mr Hsu How-yu and Mr Robert G. Adams.

Accused of snatching

A 23-year-old Malaysian tailor assistant accused of snatching a handbag from a woman at the Princess Theatre on Sunday appeared before Mr E. S. Haydon at Kowloon Court this morning.

He is Salsman, Mohammad, also known as Solomon Ma of 37 Hankow Road, 3rd floor, who was remanded three days in police custody for further inquiries.

No plea was taken.

On their way to beauty pageant

Two national beauties arrived at Kai Tak Airport this morning en route to Long Beach, California, to take part in the Miss International Beauty Contest on August 4.

They are Miss Malaya and Miss Singapore.

Miss Malaya, 21-year-old Zamariah Ahmad is a secretary for a lawyer in Kuala Lumpur. Among 18 other contestants, her reason for competing was to set an example in encouraging young Malay girls to overcome shyness.

Her main ambition is to be a good housewife; she has no interest in acting.

The other beauty, Miss Singapore, is 22-year-old Christal de Cruz, a Eurasian, who was educated in Singapore and Australia.

She is a buyer for a fashion house in Singapore. Among 30 contestants, her ambition is to be a model.

This is the second time she has taken part in the competition. On the last occasion she gained second place.

Following the contest she will tour the United States before returning to Singapore.

From the Files 25 years AGO

July, 1935

Mr Charles Douglas Lambert, Chief Mechanical Engineer of the British section of the Kowloon Canton Railway is going on leave prior to retirement after 25 years of official life in the Colony. Mr Lambert who holds the rank of Major in the Regular Army Reserve, is a member of the Institute of Mechanical Engineers.

SIR: Your correspondent "Adult Picture-Goer" is probably a newcomer to the place or else someone who knows little of events of about 15 years ago. The film "The Painted Veil" is based on a book which I originally read in serial form, when Hongkong was specifically mentioned.

When it appeared in book form later the name Hongkong had been eliminated and another substituted. There was a good reason: the story mentioned certain Civil Service appointments which were taken to reflect on the holders of these offices. To screen the film here would merely stir up again those controversies, which are best forgotten.

In spite of the ban on the name of Hongkong in the book, the film definitely indicates this Colony—by a clever piece of faked photography, Greta Garbo, the heroine, is shown perambulating Pedder Street.

Before people like your correspondent so eagerly rush into print, they should know that there may be other implications besides those of safeguarding morality to be considered. The censor, quite rightly, is disinclined to pander to any special clique of cinema-goers. COMMONSENSE.

Doris Duke, the world's richest heiress, arrived with her husband, Mr J. H. R. Cromwell, in Hongkong yesterday.

Top of class

Stoddard N.H. Charles C. Eaton, Jr., 13, was the valedictorian of Stoddard Grammar School. He couldn't miss.

He was the only pupil in the class graduating from the one-room school.—UPI.

POP By Gog

Y ASSURE YOU MADAM, THIS IS THE GENUINE ROMANTIC ITALIAN CLUT AND WOULD LOOK IDENTICAL ON ANY FAT ITALIAN

Those with good judgment drink Carlsberg

SOLE AGENTS: THE EAST ASIATIC CO. LTD.